THE rapidly increasing production of tea is those countries to east about for new markets in order to avoid the fall in prices which otherwise seems inevitable. The enormous strides which have been made in the world's consumption of tea during the last twenty-five years is one of the most remarkable features of modern commercial history. Production would at present, however, appear to be increasing at a quicker rate than the comsumntion, and honce the desire of the Indian and revision is expected to be effected with less diffi-Carlon planters to exploit other markets than that of London. The movement is not so much in the direction of finding absolute-Iv new markets as in that of ousting China and Isoso tes from the markets which have hitherto been served by those countries. Some viers ago a large quantity of tea from India was noured into Australia and forced on to the market by the extremely cheap rates at which it was sold. In consequence three or four million pounds are now annually placed there. This, however, repre- the houses a junk was sunk in the river, and two sents but a fraction of the consumption of men were drowned. On the 5th inst. a hallstorm tes in the colonies, estimated at about one merenth. The Indian Planters' Gazette urges that instead of spasmodic shipments when Calcutta prices are a little dull, every garden in India should ship a small quantity annually, irrespective of whether it involved a loss or not, with a view of cultivating a taste for Indian tea, in the colonies. The colonies have hitherto drawn their supplies from the Foochow market, supplemented to a small extent from the Canton market. The Australian market is, of course, a constantly growing one, because the nopulation is steadily increasing. Including between these and four millions. NOTES ON THE OPIUM THADE

C. FORD.

- NATIVE OPIUM. Mr. T. W. Duff writes to the N. C. Daily Vews: from Chinkiang:--Some native opium in small quantities comes here and to the neighbourhood from Yuunan and Szechuen, but the bulk that now provides the central provinces of China is grown therein, especially in Anhwui, Honan, and Kinngsu. The largest market is in the latter province, at a place called Chu-chowfor where the best kind from Tong-san-beign comes. The lekin charge upon this is Tis. 43 per picul, but a great dealarrives in small quantities which pay no lekin whatever. This, against the importation of Indian drug on which Tls. 86 per pel. lekin is required—together with the import duty at the Foreign Customs. The 30, equal in all to Tls. 116, and which then only carries it to the immediate neighbourhood of each province where imported—for each province has its separate and full charge on all goods except these under Transit Pass—will show you how the native trade will thrive, while the foreign is so $t \approx$ much protected. None of the native opium passes through the Foreign Customs. The principal trade is carried on viz the inland creeks by native boats. Nanking is the largest market for John Riley, seaman, was charged with steal- distribution, from thence it proceeds to Wusieh province of Anhwai not more than 50 miles

Several native hougs have within the past vear or so started here in connection with native and selling it as foreign. The price of native drng is from Tls. 160 to

In both cases the lekin is not included. From these figures you may safely rest assured that the Indian trade will not be long before it disappears from China.

PEKING. The new British Minister and family arrived here on the 13th of June. They came by the T'ung-chow canal to the East side gate and thence in chairs to the Legation. Several members of the Legations role out to meetthe party and welcome them to Peking. British interests may safely be entrusted to the care of the new Minister. This large addition to the Legation is a valuable angmentation of our Peking circle, for several families have already migrated to the temples on the Western Hills for the summer.

and more will speedily follow. The British Minister and new second secretary of Legation were received at the Tsungli Yamen for the first time on Friday, the 18th; the late Charge d'Affaires with the Chinese and Assistant Secretaries accompanied His'Excellency. It is certain a good impression has been created. Great Britain by force of her predominating trade and the pluck, industry, push, integrity and generosity of her merchants must always make herselffelt as a great power in the East. Mr Holcombe has returned from his flying visit to Shanghai. The new second secretary of the Russian Legation, the Prince Austole Lobanon de behalf of a benefit society, the books of which he Rostow with the Princess have also arrived. We are soon to lose Dr. Lambuth, late of Socchow, who goes to Japan two months hence to initiate a mission there in connection with the Southern Methodist Mission with which he formerly, while in your neighbourhood, was connected. Although he is but a recent arrival here, his loss will be felt, particularly by the Young Mens' Christian Association, in which he took a great interest. Another friend and supporter of the same cause. Mr. Bhein, Secretary to the Dutch Legation, will probably leave for Europe on the arrival of his chief, who is shortly expected. The new anti-Opium Society about to be instituted will also suffer from the departure of those two gentlemen. The departure of the latter gentleman will necessitate the election of a Secretary to the Peking Oriental and North Tract Societies respectively.
